Description

Self-Help Support Groups: Recovery Dharma

Self-help is a critical part of the recovery process. Self-help groups can assist callers with the tools for recovery by providing support, direction, motivation, resources and a sense that they are not dealing with the gambling problem alone.

RECOVERY DHARMA

Recovery Dharma is a peer-led, non-profit organization that offers a Buddhist-inspired approach to recovery from addiction. It integrates Buddhist teachings and mindfulness practices with the Twelve Steps of recovery.

OUR PROGRAM

Recovery Dharma offers a trauma-informed, empowered approach to recovery based on Buddhist principles. Our program is peer-led and non-theistic. We welcome all those who wish to pursue recovery as part of our community.

The readings below highlight the practices of our program. Each concept provides an opportunity to deepen understanding, explore personal inquiry, and connect with others.

Recovery Dharma is founded on, and inspired by, Buddhism that originated in India and later on flourished in other regions of Asia (e.g., South Asia, East Asia, Southeast Asia, Central Asia). We deeply appreciate the Buddhist heritage that was protected and freely offered by the ancestors of these cultures.

OUR COMMUNITY

Recovery Dharma Global is a nonprofit organization that maintains a list of Recovery Dharma meetings, shares materials, and organizes events to explore and strengthen the Recovery Dharma program.

Recovery Dharma Sangha Groups are local members who join together to support each other on this path of recovery. Members form wise friendships, and organize gatherings such as weekly meetings, workshops and other events. Local Sangha Groups are autonomous. (self-governing).

Recovery Dharma Intersanghas are groups of groups. Sometimes they organize geographically, such as around a city or region. Other times they organize by topics of recovery, affinity groups or circles of interest. Intersanghas are autonomous. (self-governing).

HOW IS IT DIFFERENT FROM OTHER RECOVERY PROGRAMS?

Newcomers, old-timers, and health professionals are all talking about Recovery Dharma (RD). But what is it? Is it really so groundbreaking in the recovery world? Lets highlight the biggest differences from most of the traditional recovery programs.

All addictions, one program

Trauma-informed

Meditation in every meeting

Buddhist-inspired, not required

Higher Power not required

You're empowered not powerless

Compatible with other programs

Our spiritual principles include: Compassion, Kindness, Generosity

We strive for Inclusion, Diversity, Equity, Accessibility

Everyone Struggles

Who here has suffered? If anyone knows about suffering, its people affected by addictive habits. We've tried to quit repeatedly, yet the cycle persists.

But there's hope. The Buddha saw a clear way out of the cycle of suffering and developed the Four Noble Truths, which are the foundation of our program. They summarize the causes of suffering but also a way of ending suffering.

Yet despite being called Truths, the Buddha famously told his followers not to blindly believe him! He said test them. Verify them. Only believe them once you directly experience them to be true. See if his teachings apply to you:

The Four Noble Truths

1. There is suffering

We experience suffering in this life.

2. There's a cause of suffering

We experience that craving, aversion, and ignorance lead to suffering.

3. There's a way of ending suffering

We experience that less craving, aversion, and ignorance leads to less suffering.

4. There's a path that leads to ending suffering

We cultivate and experience the path of recovery and awakening.

How did that check out for you? Because we'd love to share with you the path we practice in our program. It's led many of us to freedom from our addictions.

So, How Does it Work?

This is a summary of what we practice, so you can get a feel for our entire program.

1. Renunciation (Honesty & Integrity):

We commit to abstinence from addictive substances. For our process addictions, we identify needs, set boundaries, and practice self-care.

2. Meditation (Spirituality & Humility):

We commit to the intention of developing a daily meditation practice.

3. Meetings (Willingness & Service):

We attend meetings, actively participate, and become of service when possible.

4. The Path (Open-Mindedness & Discipline):

We deepen our understanding and practice of the Four Noble Truths and cultivate the Path to the ending of suffering.

5. Inventory (Courage & Awareness):

We transcend our addictive habits and heal the root causes of our suffering by writing & sharing in-depth detailed inquiries.

6. Community (Love & Connection):

We cultivate healthy relationships in our recovery community and we check-in with admirable friends to stay on the path.

7. Growth (Progress is Perfection):

We undertake a lifelong journey of growth & awakening.

Trauma-Informed Recovery

At Recovery Dharma, we learn to gently investigate the underlying causes of our substance and process addictions, which we've often found rooted in pain and trauma.

Our trauma-informed practice emphasizes compassion, non-judgment, and spaciousness to tenderly understand why we turned to our addictive habits for relief or survival.

We don't rely on motivators of shame and fear. This is a program of empowerment and we don't rely on anything other than our own potential to change and heal. We believe in our inner wisdom; that there's a pure seed of good in each of us that can always be nourished. This is the same seed that brought you to pick up and read this brochure.

In recovery, everyone deserves a chance and a choice. But regardless of the path or program chosen, we want every person suffering from addiction to be able to find the recovery program that meets their needs.

May all beings be free from suffering.

BEGINNERS GUIDE

This is a simple, step-by-step introduction to Recovery Dharma.

New to RD? Start at (1) and work your way up at your own speed. We are so glad you are here!

1. What is Recovery Dharma?

New to RD? Read this brochure as an introduction to Recovery Dharma. It explains our program in a helpful way that will make sense to newcomers.

recoverydharma.org/whatisit

2. What do we do in this program?

There are 7 essential ingredients that make up our program, outlined in The Practice. It concisely describes pretty much everything we do here to follow the path of recovery.

3. I'm ready to meet some community members. Where do I find a meeting?

Choose from hundreds of online, hybrid, and in-person meetings. Use the Type drop-down menu to find a certain meeting format, a meeting for specific identities groups, or topics.

recoverydharma.org/find-a-meeting

4. Where can I find the Recovery Dharma book?

The PDF, e-book, and audiobook versions of our book are free at the link below.

The paperback and kindle versions are available for purchase on Amazon via the link below.

recoverydharma.org/book

5. I'd like to start a regular meditation practice. Where do I start?

Our community has recorded several meditations that you can access here: recoverydharma.org/meditations

For beginners, the heart practice meditations can be highly effective, namely forgiveness and lovingkindness.

Resources from The Florida Council on Compulsive Gambling, Inc

6. People asked if I wanted to be a part of an Inquiry Circle what is that?

Inquiry Circles are small closed groups who meet weekly with a goal of completing their inventories (investigation of the underlying causes of addictive behaviors). These groups offer mutual support, a schedule, momentum, accountability, friendships, co-mentorships, safety, and more. Some people like to do inquiries with a single mentor, some like to do them with an Inquiry Circle.
